

268.620 Use of other improvements or property in plan to prevent overflow.

If the plan for reclamation in any district relates in part to the drainage of the lands and in part to the prevention of overflowing of lands within the district from any stream or body of water coming from without the district, any stream, drain, cut or depression, or any fill, levee or embankment may be used as part of the reclamation system by changing it in any way, if the efficiency thereof to the owner is not impaired.

Effective: October 1, 1942

History: Recodified 1942 Ky. Acts ch. 208, sec. 1, effective October 1, 1942, from Ky. Stat. sec. 2380b-50.